TIMEN Prayda denounced I the forthcoming Bermuda conference as "the continuation of an old discredited policy—the line of setting states against one another on the basis of ideology, and social and political systems," it provided a clue to the meaning of many of the Kremlin's subsequent acts. The Russian objection to consultation among the three Western powers made it clear that Moscow plans to insist on dealing with Western individuals-preferably one by one. This course is already being pursued in respect to Germany, Austria, Turkey and Yugoslavia, to whom the Russians have made concessions or overtures separately. In the case of Austria, Moscow drove its point home by refusing to participate in fourpower conversations on an Rhee. London, June 25. Diplomatic reports from Moscow strongly suggested today that Russia is confident that Communist China will agree to a truce in Korea despite the threats and actions of South Korea's President, Mr Syngman

Reports reaching here said that there seems to be a firm assumption in the Kremlin that an armistice agreement will be reached even though there may be some delay.

The betting was, however, that the Chinese will set a "price" for Mr Rhee's release of prisoners of war and that the price will be a signed guarantee against any hasty actions by Mr Rhee in the future.

With the comparatively mild response from Peking to Mr Rhee's latest moves, the attitude in the Kremlin is seen as a strong indication that the Communists do not at present intend to break off the armistice arrangements.

"IRRESPONSIBLE ASSERTION" BY LEFT-WINGER London, June 25.

A Conservative spokesman on behalf of Sir Winston Churchill today turned sharply against a House of Commons suggestion that the United States Embassy be closed and American troops turned out of Britain because of the "cold blooded murder" of the atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. "The Prime Minister does not for one moment accept the mischlevous and irresponsible assertion" that there is a widespread revulsion against the United States in Britain, Mr Harry Crookshank, leader of the House, sold.

The House cheered his retort to Mr Stephen Davies, a leftwing labour man. Mr Davies's own party leader, Mr Clement Attlee, the former Prime Minister, also turned against him saying Labour dissociated itself from his views.

Mr Davies urged the Government to close the United States Embassy and Consulates within four weeks and "get tho United States armed forces withdrawn forthwith British soil."

REMOVALS OF BOOKS FROM U.S. LIBRARIES

300 In Recent Months

Washington, June 25. A State Department spokesman said today that some 300 books by 18 authors had been removed from United States libraries overseas in recent months.

Mr Richard Humphrey, Assistant Adminis-Attache in Warsaw, and trator of the United States International Informaballerina Svetlana Kostiu- tion Administration, said that these books, which represented titles and not volumes, had been removed in accordance with a State Department directive stating that the works of "Communist Free Europe, an American radio authors" should not be a part of State Department

MILITARY POLICE IN ERROR

Ruling By Judge

Washington, June 25. A court here today ordered the Air Force to return a former sergeant they selzed in Pittsburgh and flew to Korea to face a court martial murder

After Government lawyers conceded he had jurisdiction, the judge ruled the military police lacked authority to arrest the former serviceman as he was a civilian at the time.

Robert Toth, 21, was working in a steel factory after his release from the Air Force last December.

Military police arrested him on May 13 for the alleged murder of a Korean civilian in

The United States Constitution provides that ex-servicemen may be arrested for court martial if the offence charged carries a penalty of at least five years in prison, and if civilian courts lack nuthority in the case.

A-Bid four no-trump. You have 13 points in high cards, 2 points for the doubletons, and 1 point for the fifth spade. North's strong rebld shows about 20 points, so that the combined total puts you in the slam sone. This Blackwood bid of four notrump asks your partner to show how many aces he holds, after which you can easily tell whether or not to bid a slam.

SECOND TEST MATCE

AFTER HAVING

London, June 25. A spell of three wickets for six runs in 10 balls by John Wardle, Yorkshire's left arm spin bowler, changed Australia's total from 190 for two to a modest first day score of 263 for five in the second Test which opened at Lord's today.

While this disaster was overtaking the Australians, their diminutive captain, Lindsay Hassett, was receiving massage in the dressing room for a pulled muscle,. which just previously had caused his retirement after scoring 101.

since 1948. RESTRAINED

Harvey was unusually restrained but he delighted the crowd of 30,000 with some grand square cuts and cover drives and when he had scored 12 he completed his 1,000 runs for the tour.

Bedser, who moved the ball about in the heavy atmosphere, Wardle, whose successes capped some sustained accurate bowling, and Brown, the former England captain, were the pick of England's bowlers.

They plugged away on an un-helpful pitch and were splendidly supported by fielding which remained keen throughout.

Harvey reached 50 in two and a half hours and was still with Hassett when ten was taken at 180 for one.

On the resumption the accuracy of Bedser and Statham kept the batemen to singles, but at 190 But we still had our cricket, It was from Halton in 1940 to break a stand of 125 which and 1.30 p.m. on Saturdays that Alec got his first really big had token five minutes under become our happiest hour of chance. Business Conditions In United States: Prospects Analysed

(BY SYDNEY S. CAMPELL, REUTER'S FINANCIAL EDITOR)

· Even if some of the present financial trouble in New York is only a temporary phase, caused by borrowing money ahead to forestall a worse squeeze later, some of the present business boom may have been temporarily procured by a similar type of anticipation.

There is only too much reason to fear that some of the recent boom in consumer durables has been borrowed from the future by inflation of consumer credit.

The real situation is difficult to discern, because almost everybody is taking his book, either to talk business up or to establish a bargaining point in forthcoming wage negotiations.

Shipbuilders In Britain Warned

London, June 24. A warning to British shipbullders that increased production and a faster turn round in repair yards were essential to meet foreign competition, was given by Mr P. L. Hunting, chairman of the Northern Petroleum Tank Steamship Company, in a statement to shareholders today.

"The rate of production now being achieved ... in foreign countries, notably Germany and Japan, is something which must be aimed at by our own shipbuilding and repairing in-dustry if British shipping is to remain competitive," he said.-Reuter.

Persistent Liquidation

New York, June 25. Cotton traders today for the second day in a row gave their entire attention to the adjustments in the nearby July delivery. The crop news, export developments, Korean reports and the usual run of priceshaping liftuences were lost tight of in the light of the spot month developments.

The issuance and free circulation of delivery notices persistent flow of liquidation in shipper demand until the spot month went down to 33.06 cents a pound. This duplicated Wednesday's bottom and was the howsers, lowest since mid-January. The price moved irregularly with day trader covering and a technical replacement demand alding the undertone at the close when the list was off 5 to up 4

Memphis shippers and spot houses absorbed July against sales of October as the Intermonth difference widened to around 65 points. As expected Wednesday's dealings practically cut the July open interest in

The new open position at the start of trading today was down less high. Equally inconclusive to 879,000 bales. Ring experts thought that another 50,000 bales might be pared off as a result of today's operations. British Jute Trade Exhibition In London

(By ALLAN MURRAY)

London, June 25. "More things are made of jute than this world dreams of". It was Mr T. D. Bruce speaking. And he should know. He is Managing Director of a outwards Dundee jute mill and has spent a lifetime in the business.

Mr Bruce was showing me round a British Jute Trade Exhibition which has opened in London. One small room holds the whole display, but there are some intriguing examples of the hundred and one uses that science has found for the ubiquitous fibre.

"Take a look at this", urged Mr Bruce. I did. It was a short piece of submarine crible, trased out to show the jute packing hour to show the jute packing hours the telegraph wire inside its heavy lead sheath.

In 1884 the cable was Inid from St Vincent, B.W.I., to Pernambuco, Brazil. For 68 years it was buried in sand and slime 14,400 feet under the sea, When it was hauled up last year the jute was found to be almost as good as now. Mr Bruce's eyes gleamed with a question at me, Did a know that a steel howser lasted only so long as it was kept greased? I did not. My mind by now was firmly fixed on jute. But so, it seemed, was Mr Bruce's, Jute, he enlightened me, is one of the best grease absorbers known. Which why it is used not only for of rags but as a marrow for steel Easier to decipher were the pictures all round the walls. Every picture told its story at a glance. And the stories were all LAND, ETC. about jute bags. .

USE IN HOUSING There was a photograph of some of the 20,000,000 candbags used to stem this year's devastating North Sea floods There were others of sacks filled with grain and yeast and coffee and coals.

But Mr Bruce has an eye for truth in advertising. "Not quite, accurate", he remarked, poking a thumb, at the exption under a coal-heaver's picture that read: "Jute Makes the Best Coal Bags". Sald Mr Bruce: "Hemp makes better ones, there's nothing to compare with jute at the price". Then he plunged again into

In housing, I gathered, more Alles. And the industry's Research Association, established four years ago, has discovered in its laboratories ways and means of making the fibre rot-roof and fire-proof. "Research takes time, but now

Already the earpet trade has become a very important custorner of Dundee's mills. I was shown a carpet made entirely of jute—choop but effective in deelen. And most carpets, like linolcum, have jute backings. In some of them the proportion of sales of 30 contracts. Prices eased jute used is as high as 40 per in a unixed intra-dealer trade,

"The mills are doing well", employ more workers today than market, at any time since the war. After all, the world grows more jute sheets were quoted at 24% cents than any other natural fibre ex- a pound. Prices closed as folcept cotton, and we know what lows:to do with It".

Prominent in the one-room exhibition was a reminder of where Dundee's jute comes from, A large display panel; strowing photographs of Paiclstant growers at work, bore the inscription: "East Pakistan provides 67 per cent of the world's juto supplies".

Although British Guizna has embadded on a pilot scheme for jute growing, several years must pass before the experiment can show its worth. Meanwhile, higher with sales totalling 3 Pakistan's crop shar an unchallenged monopoly in Dundee. "Our relations with the Pakistani industry could not be more cordial." Mr Bruce as-sured me. "We always have Pakistanis studying our techniques, and I hope to see some Pakistanis at the exhibition".

On the question of how soon compete with Dundee's longlers sure of his ground, and said October 357 bld

If I could choose my Sovereign Lady Queen, I'd give her youth and dignity and grace; . I'd give her courage and a simple heart And charm to match the beauty of her face.

And then, to this my lovely Lady Queen, I'd give the power and give the right to rule, And wisdom that she may be just and strong. To be a leader rather than a tool.

How, I would crown my honoured Lady Queen "With all the pomp and splendour that I knew; How I would bring my own, my humble, gifts Of love, of loyally, of homage true.

I do not have: to dream of such a one Not conjure her, to give this Lady breath; For such is now my Sovereign Lady Queen. Now to be crowned |--- the loved Elizabeth.
